

SDG-4

4.3.3 - Does your university as an educational body host events at university that are open to the general public: executive education programmes (this refers to short courses for people who are not attending the university; this specifically excludes courses like MBA) and/or vocational training?

TSUL as a Hub for Public Skills Development: Executive Learning & Vocational Training

Executive and Vocational Education for the General Public

Tashkent State University of Law (TSUL) is committed to advancing the United Nations Sustainable Development Goal 4 (Quality Education) by providing accessible and high-quality learning opportunities for all. In alignment with SDG 4.3.3, the university hosts a wide range of educational events, executive education programmes, and vocational training courses that are open to the general public. These initiatives are designed to promote lifelong learning, enhance professional skills, and contribute to the legal literacy and cultural development of society. By extending its educational resources beyond enrolled students, TSUL fosters an environment of continuous personal and professional growth for all citizens.

Publicly Accessible Educational Programmes

TSUL offers several key educational programmes designed to be accessible to the general public, providing valuable knowledge and skills in various legal and professional fields.

LEGAL PORTAL.UZ Courses

This online platform provides a variety of courses open to the public, aimed at increasing legal literacy across different segments of society. The courses are designed to be practical and relevant, covering essential topics and providing certification upon completion. Key courses include:

Tashkent State University of Law (TSUL) hosts events and offers multiple short courses and training programmes that function as executive education and vocational training open to the general public (i.e., people not attending the university).

TSUL has established a dedicated centre, and offers specific platforms and programmes for specialized, non-degree training, demonstrating a commitment to lifelong learning and professional development for the wider community.

Centre for Professional Training of Lawyers by International Standards

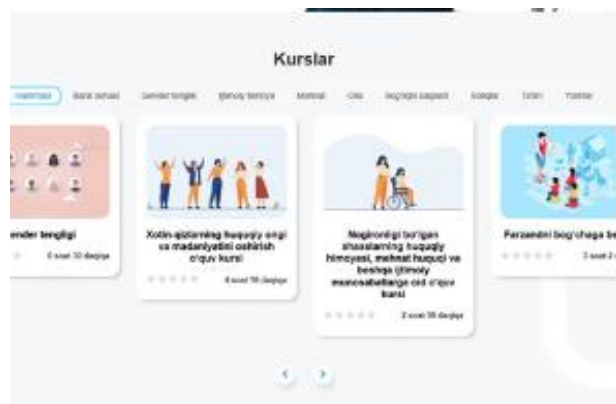

This centre, operating under TSUL, is specifically established to provide professional training for lawyers and other individuals interested in legal expertise. This directly addresses the need for short, specialized vocational training.

Summer Course on International Commercial Arbitration

TSUL organizes this specialized short-term course focused on an advanced legal topic, which serves as a form of executive education for legal professionals and interested members of the public.

The Project "Targ'ibot poyezdi" (Propaganda Train)

While not a traditional course, this project involves outreach activities intended to promote legal knowledge, functioning as an educational event open to the general public, distinct from a standard academic curriculum.

Statistics: The volunteer selection competition conducted by the Legal Clinic of Tashkent State University of Law has concluded. In 2025, about 800 students applied for internship at the Legal Clinic. Based on the selection results, 137 students were admitted as volunteers. For reference: in 2024, the clinic's specialists and volunteers reviewed more than 3,000 appeals.*

The students of the Legal Clinic, in collaboration with university teaching staff, actively organize various promotional events and on-site citizen receptions with the slogan, “Our priority is to enhance society’s legal awareness and culture.”

Students who are members of the Legal Clinic have the opportunity to:

- Work on real cases
- Engage in face-to-face consultations with citizens
- Draft legal statements, complaints, claims
- Acquire other important skills essential for a professional lawyer

Admission Information: The Legal Clinic accepts students from the 1st to 3rd years. Due to the growing interest in practical experience at the Legal Clinic, the selection process will include a qualifying round with special tasks. Those who pass tasks will be invited for an interview with the head of the Legal Clinic.
